The Commons of Argyll was written and edited by Duncan C. MacTavish, M.A., in 1935 at Castleton Cottage, near Lochgilphead, Argyll, by Loch Fyne. His gleanings were taken from the available lists that remained extant in the Sheriff's Court of Argyll. This is an important and rare little book of historical facts for Argyllshire, but it was cheaply printed on acidic paper, with a grayish hardboard cover and green cloth back binding. The binding stitchery is only 9 thread holes. This little book of only 62 numbered pages was printed in 1935, and my personal copy used for this scan was fragile. The front cover seems to bear the print number [ 2 of 6 (2/6.) ] but it is not known for certain what these numbers designate.

The List of Rebels, in particular, is certainly incomplete as the actual dispositions went missing for the 1685 rebellion (The Earl of Argyll's part in the Monmouth Rebellion).

Lowlanders in Argyll have their own list, separate from the native Highlanders. What is most interesting is that among the Lowlanders there are only three "Thomson" patronymics noted: Andrew Thomson on page 49, James Thomson on page 50, and William Thomsone on page 51.

There may also be errors in who was enumerated as an actual rebel against the government during the 1685 rebellion, and also in the List of Gigha Men, and those men who forfeited property. The list of forfeitures is from the original records, however. The rebellion was an excellent opportunity to name persons with whom one had a vendetta, and to settle that score with allegations toward another. There probably are an abundance of missing persons due to the missing dispositions.

The List of Fencible Men in 1692 follows the lists of Rebels and is probably quite accurate, except there are some localities or parishes not accounted for, so this list is also incomplete as to the actual names and numbers of men who were eligible to form a militia.

Here follows The Commons of Argyll.

PREFACE.

The lists of names here printed have been taken from the records of the Sheriff Court of Argyll preserved in the Court-house at Inveraray, and in issuing them from the press I have to tender my thanks to the officials for the facilities afforded for inspection of these documents.

The "Declaration" issued by the Earl of Argyll at Tarbert on 27th May 1685 contained the following order to his vassals and tenants, confirming instructions already conveyed to them:—

"I do hereby require all my vassals everywhere, and all within my several jurisdictions, with the fencible men within their command, to go to arms, and to join and concur with us, according to the said Declaration, as they will be answerable at their highest perils, and to obey the particular orders they shall receive from me from time to time."

The numbers of fencible men in Argyll in 1685 may be taken as practically the same as in 1692, and a comparison between the lists of rebels and the lists of fencible men given in the following pages indicates clearly the extent to which Argyll's order was obeyed.

Apart from their historical interest in connection with Argyll's rebellion, the lists of 1692, and to a lesser extent the lists of 1685, have an interest of their own in regard to the distribution and prevalence of particular surnames. They show generally the native races of the different districts, not usually bearing the name of their feudal superiors, but, in addition to the influx from the Lowlands, there is evidence of a certain amount of movement of population beyond the boundaries of their native parishes which is perhaps not sufficiently allowed for in the generally accepted ideas of the state of the Highlands prior to 1745. Thus "Donald Mc gilhuash" and "Donald Mc leoud " (page 5) are unlikely to have been genuine Knapdaliens, " Donald Mc quein " in Strachur (page 12) was almost certainly a native of Skye, while the Galbraiths and Macilvernocks in Lismore (page 24) were no doubt incomers from Mid Argyll or Kintyre. To take an extreme instance, in circumstances which rendered a permanent settlement undesirable, the records of the Justice Court of Argyll show that in 1699, seven years after the Massacre, one of the Glencoe MacIans could still be on friendly terms with a Campbell cousin in Kilmartin and take one of his clansmen south with him to engage with three other Campbells and a Cameron in a series of depredations in Mid Argyll.

NOTES.

LIST OF REBELLS IN ARGYLL SHYR AND TARBERT SHYR.

The original of this list consists of 33 pages. Certain names and notes, which I have shown in italics, have been added in another hand. The list is neither signed nor dated, but it appears to have been drawn upon for the list of rebels forfeited on 12th October 1685 which is given on pages 18 to 22. The Court papers for the period are incomplete and the draft lists and depositions from which the list must have been compiled have in the main disappeared. Several of the Kintyre names, however, occur in the record of a Court held at Campbeltown by John Boyle of Kelburn and John Mc Nachtan of Dunderave, Lieutenants Depute, on 25th August 1685, at which various parties were examined on oath as to their knowledge of vagrant preachers and of persons concerned in the rebellion. As stated in the title to the list, the rebels in the islands are not included, but apart from the islands the main body of the rebels would appear to have been drawn from Mid Argyll and Cowal, particularly from the parishes of Glassary, Knapdale, Kilberry, Kilmartin and Kilmodan. Mc inuchersage on page 9 (Kilmartin) is probably a transcriber's error for a name representing the modern MacIsaac (see the corresponding entry on page 20). Erawfuird on page 15 (Glenaray) is a misprint for Crawfuird.

LIST OF THE GIGA MEN.

This list includes fugitives from the mainland of Kintyre. At a Court held at Lochhead (Campbeltown) on 8th September 1685 the heritors, freeholders, wadsetters and life-renters in Kintyre division were ordered to find caution in 1,000 merks and the tacksmen in 500 merks, all before the first Thursday of October.

LIST OF THE REBELS FORFEITED.

The particulars in this list are taken from the original papers. A comparison with the section of the "List of Rebels" relating to Glassary, Kilmartin, Melfort, Craignish, Dalavich, Kilchrenan and Innishail (pages 7 to 10) indicates that the names have been selected from that List. There are no indications among the Sheriff Court papers for the period whether similar proceedings were instituted against the remainder of the rebels, but there are various papers relating to actions in respect of theft of goods and stock at the time of the Rebellion. Campbell of Barbreck, acting for himself and his tenants, made good a claim against Stewart of Ardsheal for £5,800 - 11 - 8 Scots for goods and stock, with £400 Scots for damages and expenses, and Ardsheal in 1701 got decree at Inveraray against those of his followers who had shared in the plunder for their respective proportions of the amount he had paid to Barbreck. Macarthur of Innistrynich also made good a similar claim in 1686 against Donald Macdonald of Benbecula and his followers for 2,600 merks, and Macdonald in 1710 brought an action against his associates for payment of their shares of the spoil. The claim lodged by Campbell of Inverliver for himself and his tenants against Lochnell, Inverawe and the Tutor of Appin amounted to £6,339 - 16 - 8 Scots.

LIST OF THE FENCIBLE MEN, 1692.

The names in the lists grouped under this head are extracted from the signed returns preserved among the Sheriff Court papers. The bundle in which they are included does not contain the returns for Mull, Islay, Ardnamurchan or Appin or for the parishes of Inveraray, Strachur and Strathlachlan and Lochgoilhead and Kilmorich. The lists were made out in terms of a proclamation dated 9th May 1692 calling out the fencible men of the shires of Edinburgh, Haddington, Berwick, Roxburgh, Selkirk, Peebles, Stirling, Clackmannan, Fife, Kinross, Linlithgow, Lanark, Ayr, Argyll, Dunbarton, Renfrew, Dumfries, Kirkcudbright and Wigton "for putting the Countrey in a posture of Defence against an Invasion of French and Irish Papists." The list for Campbeltown and the list of Highlanders in Kilcolmkill and Kilchivan are dated 3rd June 1692 and the lists for Killeen, Saddell and Kilchenzie, Kilmichael and Kilchousland and Kilcolmkill, Kilblaan and Kilchivan 4th June 1692. The following note is appended to the Campbeltown list:—

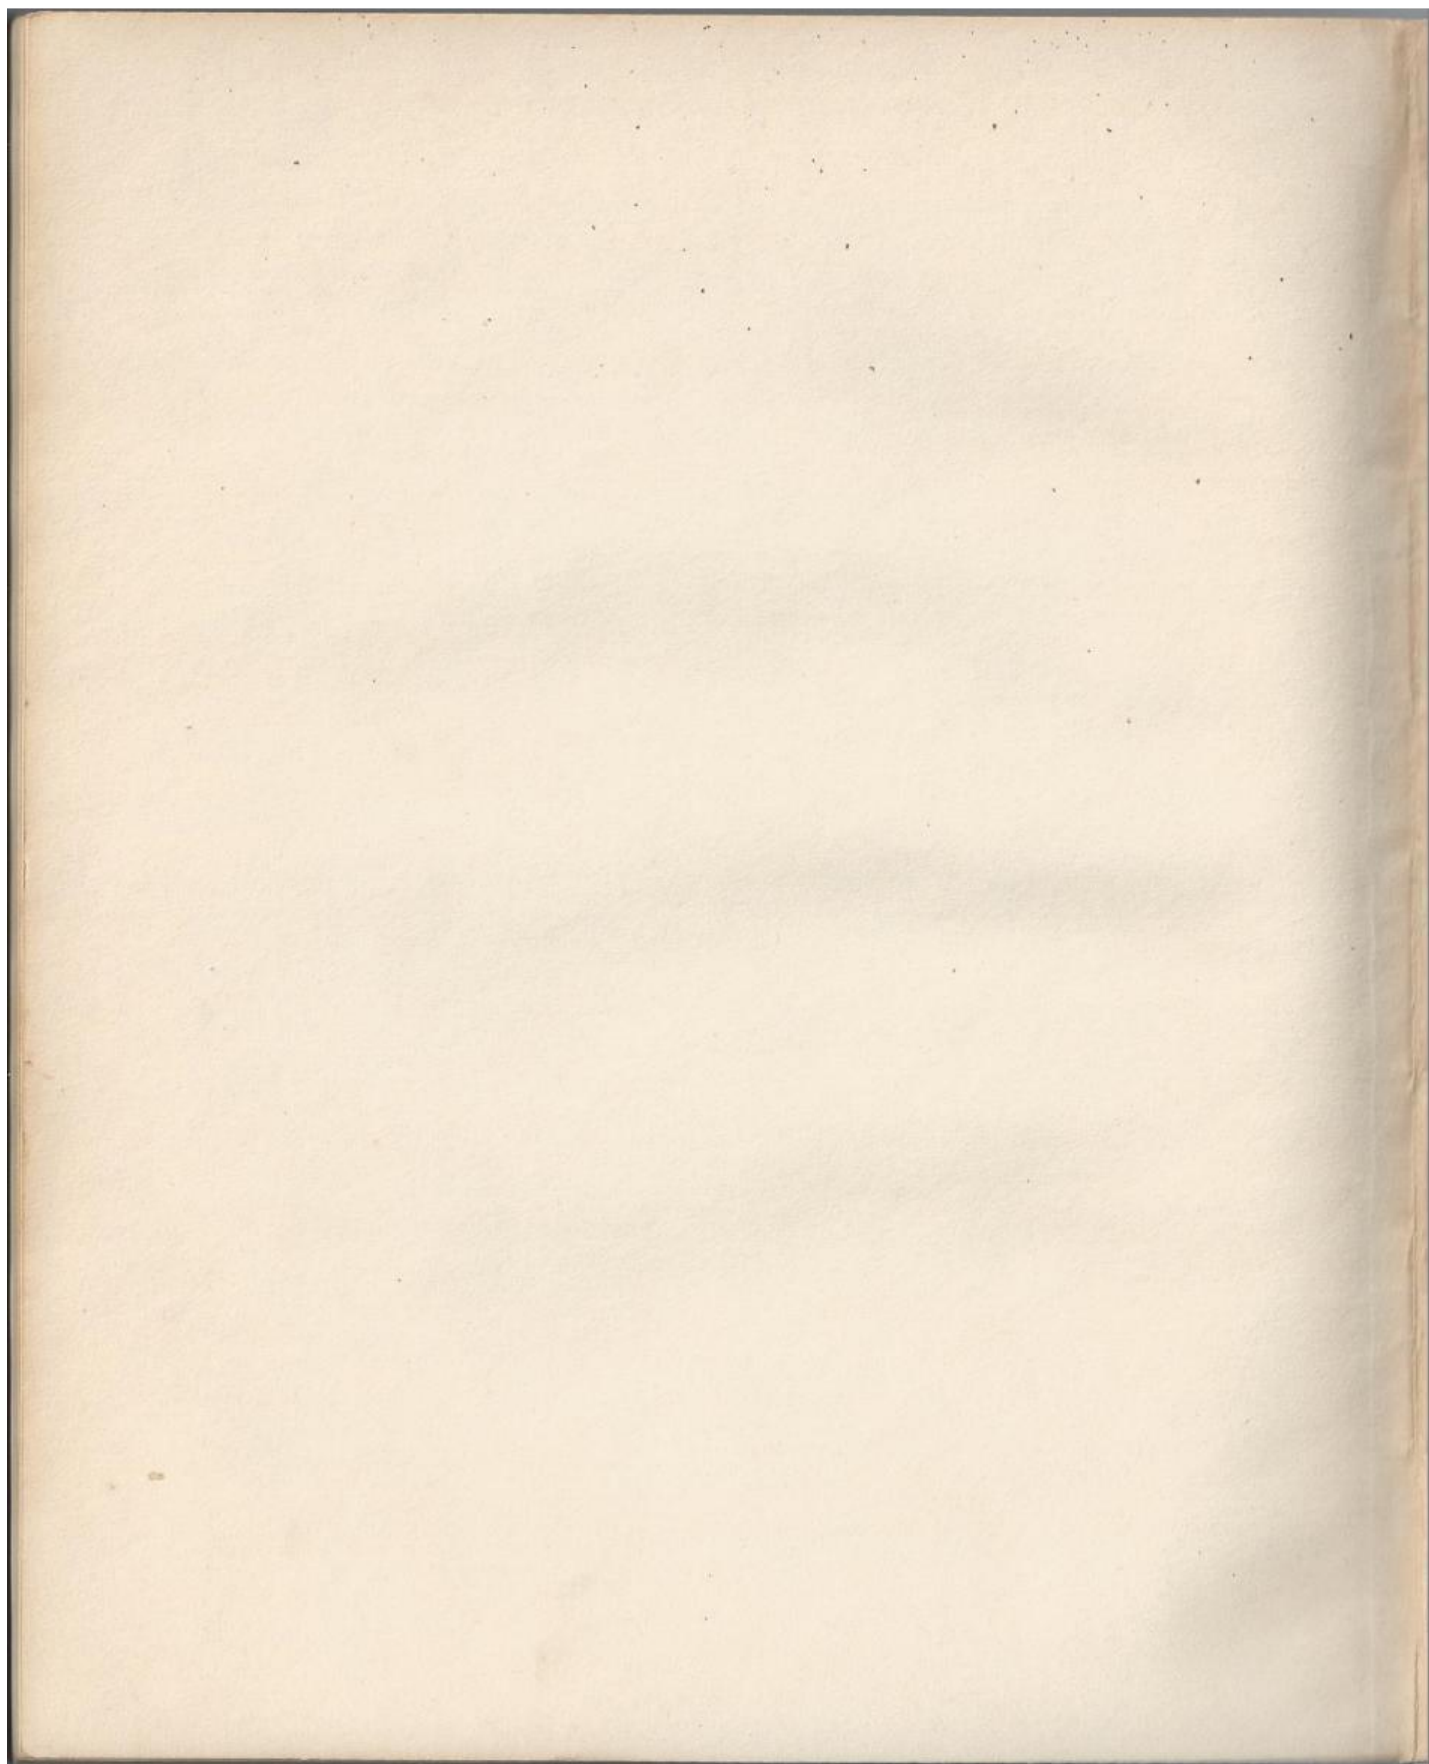

"There is of hielanders in the paroches of Kilmichael, Kilchuselane, Kilkerran and Kilblain fencible men had they armes Ane hundred and ten men, all the armes is eighteen swords and eight guns."

The only parish which is returned as being fully armed is Clachandysart, each man having a sword and a gun. Lismore had 55 swords and 41 guns, Kilmore and Kilbride 103 swords and 31 guns, Knapdale 66 swords and 32 guns, Kilberry 44 swords and 19 guns, and Kilfinan 62 swords and 40 guns. Considerable numbers in the various parishes had no arms of any description.
